

President Jots Down Thoughts in Memo Form

SOMETIME DURING THE DAY, HOOVER CALLS STENOGRAPHER TO DICTATE PARAGRAPHS OF MESSAGE

Washington, Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—President Hoover carries a little pad of note paper—such as can be bought in most any stationery store three for a dime—in his pocket. To it he confides the thoughts which will make up the message he will give congress on Tuesday.

For three weeks Mr. Hoover has directed all of his energies towards the preparation of his message. At breakfast he draws the note pad from his pocket and scribbles, with a little, sawed off lead pencil, thoughts which pop into his mind over the morning muffled. At lunch and even at dinner when there are guests present, the note pad is likely to appear.

Some time during the day the president calls a stenographer, takes out these notes and dictates paragraphs from them. These all go into his private file for the annual message. Now the message is taking its final form—an assemblage of the best from these many memoranda which started with pencil jottings on a cheap note pad.

It has worn on him. He is plainly tired. He isn't unhealthily tired but just good, honest tired from hard work. He has worked without sparing himself. The message has held his thoughts late into many nights. There are stories that he awakens in the hours after midnight and makes notes. Thanksgiving afternoon found him poring over documents, memos and reports.

Through it all he remains buoyant in spirit. His personal physicians seem to harbor no fears for his health. There was not enough anxiety around the White House yesterday to prevent the president going out in the rain to have his picture taken. A light rain sprinkled him as he stood on the back lawn and was photographed with a delegation of the W. C. T. U.

HIGHWAY NO. 2, BRAINERD-CROSBY, OPEN TO TRAFFIC

ONLY DETOUR IS THAT NEAR IRONTON; NEW HIGHWAY IS MARKED

With the exception of a short detour near Iron-ton, the new State Trunk Highway No. 2 between Brainerd and Crosby was open to traffic today.

Gravel has been laid on the new stretches and markers have been put up by the Minnesota Highway Department. The new stretches of the highway total 9.9 miles and the new route cuts the distance between the towns two miles and eliminates the crossing of railway tracks.

The new highway starts at A street and skirts Lum Park.

The opening of the road was announced officially by the highway department today.

Federal Agents Find Unregistered Still

St. Cloud, Minn., Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—Because federal prohibition agents found an unregistered 50 gallon still on his farm, Nicholas Gingle, farmer living near Pierz, was to appear before U. S. Commissioner J. I. Donahue, St. Cloud, today to answer charges of illegal manufacture of liquor and possession of an unregistered still.

The still was found hidden in a chicken shack, officers said.

In another shack on a farm near Harding, Frank, Leo and Sylvester Lepinski were arrested when found operating a 100 gallon still and with 1,000 gallons of mash.

WARN YOUTH TO RESPECT, ENJOY FARM LIFE IF AGRICULTURE IS TO PROGRESS

Chicago, Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—Five hundred leaders of the nation's farm women listened today to a warning that agriculture will never come into its own until the boys and girls born on the farms are brought to respect and enjoy farm life enough to stay there.

Speakers at their two-day meeting in the Sherman Hotel stressed the need of keeping young folks on the farm, of improving rural schools to benefit farm communities, of organizing farm women for mutual welfare, and of furnishing helpful social and cultural activities for grown-ups and young folk.

"The country school should rightfully be the common cultural and recreational center of the countryside. Everyone should benefit from an improved rural school system."

J. S. Jones, St. Paul, secretary of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, deplored the policy of educating farm youth to look forward to a job in the city with a weekly pay-check.

"In the past," he said, "too much fresh blood from the farms has gone into the cities to build up great American enterprises. We must cease the policy of forcing the boys and girls away from the farms if agriculture is ever to come into its own."

EDITORIALS CHARGING LAXITY IN INVESTIGATION OF MURDER HELD RESPONSIBLE

Bladensburg, Md., Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—The Washington Daily News charged today that its photographer was black-jacked last night by a Maryland constable after threats had followed editorials charging laxity in investigation of a murder.

Thomas P. McAvoy, the cameraman, was taken to a Washington hospital with a severe wound in his scalp. It was received, he said, after the inquest into what is known as "the old colonial tea house murder."

The beating was preceded, the News said, by telephone threats purporting to be from Alan Bowie, Prince Georges county state's attorney, and a man representing himself to be Chief of Police J. J. Crowley of Hyattsville, the county seat.

The newspaper's cameraman and reporters were threatened with violence if they "set foot in the county."

As result of the beating received by McAvoy last night, Governor Ritchie has been asked to investigate. The department of justice may be asked to act if the case lies within its province.

McAvoy, with other press reporters from Washington, had been forbidden to take photographs in the fire house where the inquest was held. He went out into the public highway and set up his camera.

Constable Howard Slater of Berwyn followed him and as the photographer prepared to take some "shots," struck him from behind with a blackjack. McAvoy dropped his camera, and the constable hit him again. They grappled, and a third blow on the head felled the photographer. He was taken to a hospital and later charged with assaulting an officer.

St. Paul, Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—Atty. Gen. Henry N. Benson today consented to join the village of Chisholm in its court attack on a home rule charter adopted by the city of Fraser Aug. 21.

Chisholm for some time has been attempting to annex Fraser. Chisholm citizens are attempting to set aside the charter. In their petition they charge that the entire proceedings leading to the adoption of the charter were instigated by mining companies to fight the proposed annexation.

Bank Credit Pool Stimulates Finance

Davenport, Ia., Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—Under the inspiration of a newspaper publisher and other public spirited citizens, the large American Savings Bank and Trust company plans to reopen January 16 as the Davenport Trust and Savings Bank. The concern closed more than two months ago, with repercussions in eastern Iowa and western Illinois. Timidity and weakened confidence, however, were wiped out when E. P. Adler, well known publisher and stockholder in the institution, started a campaign to reopen and rebuild this huge institution.

HANG NEGRO AFTER DRAGGING HIM FROM HOSPITAL DEATHBED

MOB THEN SOAKS BODY WITH GASOLINE AND BURNED IT IN NEGRO SECTION

Salisbury, Md., Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—A mob late last night invaded a local hospital, abducted a wounded negro, and hanged him in the public square. Then they soaked his body with gasoline and burned it.

The negro, Mac Williams, earlier in the day shot and killed his employer, Daniel J. Elliott, then shot himself. He was taken to the hospital in a serious condition.

A mob of 4,000 stormed the hospital guarded by deputies, and then lynched and burned the negro.

While the main body of the mob menaced the sheriff and his deputies in front of the Peninsula general hospital, six leaders slipped in a side door, took Williams, heavily bandaged, from his bed, and hustled him to the courtyard plaza.

One of the mob tossed the end of a rope over a tree limb in the yard and the other end was fastened around the negro's neck. Eager volunteers hauled him off the ground, where he hung for about 20 minutes.

Then the body was cut down and carried to the edge of the negro district. Gasoline was poured over it and ignited. The crowd shouted and applauded as the flames leaped high against the black sky.

Officials said Williams was dragged from his death bed to be lynched. He was suffering from wounds inflicted by himself as well as by Daniel Elliott, Jr., son of the man he killed.

New Government Enforces Order in Salvador

San Salvador, Salvador, Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—This country was quiet today under a provisional military regime which overthrew President Arturo Araujo. Normal life of the capital was resumed. Censorship was lifted.

New York, Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—The National Credit corporation, formed to aid banks with "frozen" assets, was reported today as having "a pronounced psychological effect on finance," functioning perfectly and refusing no loans so far.

Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman, said the organization has made "a material influence among American banks." He declared American banks as a whole were sound, especially backed with the corporation credit.

Directors of the corporation after a meeting here yesterday issued a statement in which they reported the credit plan as functioning in through-out 12 federal reserve districts. Continual progress was noted in the local organization.

"The national officers," the statement said, "of the corporation reported that applications for loans to associations of subscribing banks have been received daily since Nov. 1 and thus far no loan has been refused."

"The organization is operating so effectively that loans are being accepted and funds remitted to the local associations for borrowing banks on the same day on which the loan applications are received. In some instances loans have been arranged and funds placed at the disposal of borrowing banks within four or five hours."

GERMANY'S DEBT PAYMENTS DEPEND ON ABILITY TO PAY

FASCIST GOVERNMENT TO RECOGNIZE PRIVATE OBLIGATIONS ON THIS BASIS

Berlin, Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—Private debt payments on a capacity to pay will be recognized by the fascist government which Adolf Hitler expects to assume power "within a few weeks, or at the outside a few months."

But such private debts can't be paid, it was indicated, if the world agrees with the French view that reparations must be paid first.

Hitler, leader of the brown-shirted national socialists, ("Nazis," or fascists) said payment of debts is not a question of good will, but of capacity to pay.

He said if the world powers adhered to the French thesis of priority of reparations payments over private debts, "Germany will fall a prey to bolshevism, and chaos is inevitable."

Hitler said his government would refuse to sign on the dotted line any document which it is convinced is impossible to fulfill.

Hitler said that when he came into power within a few months his government would submit an "unadulterated picture" of conditions in Germany to the outside world, which he claimed so far had been lacking.

FLIER KILLED IN ATTEMPT TO BREAK WORLD SPEED MARK

LOWELL BAYLES CRASHED IN DETROIT WHILE TRAVELING 300 MILES PER HOUR

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—Lowell Bayles, Springfield, Mass., speed flier, crashed at Wayne county airport here today while traveling nearly 300 miles per hour and was killed.

He was the second largest prize winner at the last national air races at Chicago, gaining speed honors in his small but powerful "Gee Bee" monoplane.

An apparent new land plane speed record he recently made was disallowed.

Bayles had taken off and warmed up the plane. He circled until nearly 2,500 feet up, then nosed his tiny Gee Bee racer down into a power dive preparatory to the start of another attempt to break the world's speed record.

The plane was screaming toward the earth. One hundred feet from the ground he flattened out. Something went wrong. The plane rolled over, flames burst out and enveloped it.

Bayles had been here several weeks seeking to win the world's land speed plane record from France. Early this week he apparently had made a new record but failure of cameras to photograph his start perfectly prevented any authentic check. A recheck of records available indicated he was two miles per hour short of the time necessary to establish a new record.

RAINEY SELECTED FOR FLOOR LEADER'S POST BY DEMOCRATS

OUTLINES PLANS FOR TAKING OVER HOUSE FOR FIRST TIME IN 13 YEARS

Washington, Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—The fighting democratic leader, John Nance Garner of Texas, was nominated formally today for speaker of the house of representatives, to step Monday into the place of honor.

After nominating Garner, the democratic house caucus selected a northern, the veteran Henry T. Rainey, Illinois, as floor leader and lieutenant of the Texas.

Exultant, the democrats met in the house chamber to prepare to take over the house of representatives for the first time in 13 years and to sing out their challenge to republicans for the national campaign next year, when they hope to capture the presidency.

Garner will oppose the republican candidate for the speakership, Rep. Bertrand H. Snell, New York, at the election held when the house convenes Monday. Democrats now have a majority of five over republicans and Garner's election appears assured.

Democrats turned out in full force. Only two of their 219 members were absent when the roll was called. They were Representatives Stewart, New Jersey, and Larsen, Georgia.

Before nominating Garner and Rainey, the caucus selected Rep. William W. Arnold, Ill., as its chairman, James V. McClintic, Okla., as secretary, and Mrs. Marty T. Norton as assistant secretary.

Garner's election was unanimous by a standing vote.

NIP BANDIT RAID AT THRESHOLD OF BANK KILLING ONE ROBBER

DRUG STORE EMPLOYEE OPENS FIRE ON BANDITS AS THEY ENTER BANK

Cleveland, O., Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—Gunfire at the threshold of a bank here today prevented a robbery and left one of the bandits dead on the sidewalk while a second fled in terror.

The slain man was identified as Richard Lohman, 24, Cleveland.

George Gerlach, drugstore employee, was leaving the Pearl Street bank on the west side with $1,000 in payroll money when the robbers attempted to enter.

He met them at the door. The robbers thrust pistols at Gerlach. The payroll messenger jumped aside, drawing his own gun. He fired and Lohman toppled forward shot in the abdomen.

The second robber fled. Gerlach emptied his gun at him. Lohman died before the sound of the shots ceased.

JAPANESE MINISTER SAYS SITUATION IS DIFFICULT BUT BY NO MEANS INSOLUBLE

Paris, Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—The council of the League of Nations received a report today that Alfred Sze, Chinese minister to London and delegate to the council, had resigned. The council telephoned to the Chinese delegation and Sze's son, who acts as his secretary, denied the report.

By BARON KIJURO SHIDEHARA
Tokio, Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—The political aspects of the Manchurian situation offer considerable difficulties, but they are by no means insoluble. Japan does not covet a single inch of Chinese soil. The basis of our foreign policy long has been, and it continues to be, one of a desire for co-operation with China, not only in the development of Manchuria for our mutual welfare, but also in the many phases of Chinese and Japanese relations.

China is our neighbor, and to a very considerable extent her welfare is our welfare. Japan has certain definite rights in Manchuria, by legal treaties and agreements. It is those rights which we are striving to uphold, for they are absolutely vital to the very existence of our country.

We sincerely believe it is to the interest of China as much as Japan to co-operate with us. We believe the way to do this is in direct and friendly negotiations with China, and we are ready to begin such negotiations at any time.

WOULD DROP OUSTER IF HE PERMITTED NORDBYE SELECTION

DEFEATED DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE DISCLAIMS ANY PART IN PROPOSITION

Washington, Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—Senator Schall, republican, Minnesota, said today he had been promised the election contest against himself would be withdrawn if he would permit confirmation of Federal Judge Nordbye. He said he refused the proposition.

Schall declined to say who approached him, but expressed the opinion they were "seemingly unauthorized persons."

The blind Minnesota senator denied reports that he also had been offered permission to name a new district judge in connection with the same alleged deal.

"I turned them down cold on their proposition," Schall added. He announced he intended to continue his fight against confirmation of Nordbye.

Nordbye's nomination was sent to the senate last session by President Hoover. It failed of action because of Schall's objections. He had a candidate for the post who was unacceptable to Atty. Gen. Mitchell and the White House.

John J. Farrell, St. Paul, democratic state chairman, said, "Nobody has been authorized to tell Senator Schall that the contest for his seat will be dropped in event he withdraws his objection to the confirmation of Judge Nordbye."

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—Einar Hoidal, defeated democratic senatorial candidate in the election last year, today issued a statement denying that "authentic emissaries" had approached Senator Thomas Schall on a deal to drop the contest against the senator's re-election.

According to the reports that Hoidal answered, the contest of Senator Schall's election was to be dropped if Schall in turn dropped his opposition to the appointment of Gunnar H. Nordbye as a federal judge in Minnesota.

Hoidal challenged Schall to reveal the names of the "emissaries" which were alleged to have seen Schall in behalf of dropping the election contest.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 5.—(UP)—Lowell Bayles, Springfield, Mass., speed flier, crashed at Wayne county airport here today while traveling nearly 300 miles per hour and was killed.

He was the second largest prize winner at the last national air races at Chicago, gaining speed honors in his small but powerful "Gee Bee" monoplane.

An apparent new land plane speed record he recently made was disallowed.

Bayles had taken off and warmed up the plane. He climbed until nearly 2,500 feet up, then nosed his tiny Gee Bee racer down into a power dive preparatory to the start of another attempt to break the world's speed record.

The plane was screaming toward the earth. One hundred feet from the ground he flattened out. Something went wrong. The plane rolled over, flames burst out and enveloped it.

Bayles had been here several weeks seeking to win the world's land speed plane record from France. Early this week he apparently had made a new record but failure of cameras to photograph his start perfectly prevented any authentic check. A check of records available indicated he was two miles per hour short of the time necessary to establish a new record.

RAINEY SELECTED FOR FLOOR LEADER'S
POST BY DEMOCRATSOUTLINES PLANS FOR TAKING OVER HOUSE FOR FIRST TIME IN 13 YEARS

Washington, Dec. 5.—(UP)—The fighting democratic leader, John Nance Garner of Texas, was nominated formally today for speaker of the house of representatives, to step Monday into the place of honor.

After nominating Garner, the democratic house caucus selected a northern, the veteran Henry T. Rainey, Illinois, as floor leader and lieutenant of the Texas.

Exultant, the democrats met in the house chamber to prepare to take over the house of representatives for the first time in 13 years and to sing out their challenge to republicans for the national campaign next year, when they hope to capture the presidency.

Garner will oppose the republican candidate for the speakership, Rep. Bertrand H. Snell, New York, at the election held when the house convenes Monday. Democrats now have a majority of five over republicans and Garner's election appears assured.

Democrats turned out in full force. Only two of their 219 members were absent when the roll was called. They were Representatives Stewart, New Jersey, and Larsen, Georgia.

Before nominating Garner and Rainey, the caucus selected Rep. William W. Arnold, Ill., as its chairman, James V. McClintic, Okla., as secretary, and Mrs. Marty T. Norton as assistant secretary.

Garner's election was unanimous by a standing vote.

NIP BANDIT RAID AT THRESHOLD OF BANK
KILLING ONE ROBBERDRUG STORE EMPLOYEE OPENS FIRE ON BANDITS AS THEY ENTER BANK

The slain man was identified as Richard Lohman, 24, Cleveland.

George Gerlach, drugstore employee, was leaving the Pearl Street bank on the west side with $1,000 in payroll money when the robbers attempted to enter.

He met them at the door. The robbers thrust pistols at Gerlach.

The payroll messenger jumped aside, drawing his own gun. He fired and Lohman toppled forward shot in the abdomen.

The second robber fled. Gerlach emptied his gun at him. Lohman died before the sound of the shots ceased.

Two other men are under indictment and were sought unsuccessfully near Brainerd a few weeks ago.

JAPANESE MINISTER SAYS SITUATION IS DIFFICULT BUT BY NO MEANS INSOLUBLE

Paris, Dec. 5.—(UP)—The council of the League of Nations received a report today that Alfred Sze, Chinese minister to London and delegate to the council, had resigned. The council telephoned to the Chinese delegation and Sze's son, who acts as his secretary, denied the report.

By BARON KIJURO SHIDEHARA

Tokio, Dec. 5.—(UP)—The political aspects of the Manchurian situation offer considerable difficulties, but they are by no means insoluble. Japan does not covet a single inch of Chinese soil. The basis of our foreign policy long has been, and it continues to be, one of a desire for co-operation with China, not only in the development of Manchuria for our mutual welfare, but also in the many phases of Chinese and Japanese relations.

China is our neighbor, and to a very considerable extent her welfare is our welfare. Japan has certain definite rights in Manchuria, by legal treaties and agreements. It is those rights which we are striving to uphold, for they are absolutely vital to the very existence of our country.

We sincerely believe it is to the interest of China as much as Japan to co-operate with us. We believe the way to do this is in direct and friendly negotiations with China, and we are ready to begin such negotiations at any time.

NEW FALLS QUINT DEFEATS MOTLEY

With practically a new team on the floor, the Little Falls high school cagers defeated Motley in the first game of the season by a score of 42 to 6 at Little Falls last night. Playing against a team of veterans the Falls squad showed up well for an early season game.

Riddle, regular guard of last year, was ineligible this week, and the lineup was new with the single exception of Beveridge. The team play was exceptionally smooth for an opening battle as the score readily indicates. Jackson, playing his first cage game for Little Falls in two years, was easily the outstanding man on the floor. His ball handling was unusually good. However, the eleven field goals and two free throws he scored for a total of 24 points were directly accounted for by the floor work of his teammates.

Beveridge's teamwork was responsible for a number of points and the guarding of Schultheis and Johnson broke up many Motley plays. In brief, the prospects seem bright for a team that will make Brainerd and Crosby fight for district honors.

Next Friday the basketballers journey to Crosby-Ironton to play the ore diggers who always have a good team. With Riddle in next Friday the team should be strengthened.

Busy Street no Place for Community Christmas Tree

With the holiday season approaching, the Minnesota Highway department issues a timely warning against erecting community Christmas trees in the middle of any street which carries trunk highway traffic. Christmas trees or any other decorative device placed at any intersection where one or both streets carry heavy traffic create a serious traffic hazard. The department will not issue any permits for any trees, stands or other devices which obstruct traffic on any street designated as a trunk highway, and it cautions municipal authorities that they are taking a risk of heavy damage suits of any one is injured due to any trees or amusement devices on the street. AITKINITE VOICES HARD TIMES CLUB

M. Suzar, proprietor of the Model Cleaners at Aitkin has proposed the establishment of a hard times club in the interest of needy persons who have not the necessary funds to buy food.

He suggests that business men donate to a fund which would be used to purchase meal tickets at 10, 15, and 25 cents each. The money and tickets would be placed in charge of a responsible citizen. The idea originates from the fact that business men as well as housewives of the town are constantly appealed to by needy persons for money and food, and in some cases, where people responded willingly, they later found that they had been duped by grafters, who were simply using this means to obtain some easy money.

By centralizing the funds, those in charge would be more apt to learn whether the applicant for aid were really worthy. Almost everyone will gladly aid some brother in distress, but there is not a person who does not resent being tricked into aiding professional panhandlers, no matter how small the amount. Suzar has offered his time and services in organizing the club, which he suggests be called "The Hard Times Lunch Club."

The proposition will doubtless be approved by other Aitkin business men who are all willing to help the unfortunate in this time of need.

AITKINITE VOICES HARD TIMES CLUB

M. Suzar, proprietor of the Model Cleaners at Aitkin has proposed the establishment of a hard times club in the interest of needy persons who have not the necessary funds to buy food. He suggests that business men donate to a fund which would be used to purchase meal tickets at 10, 15, and 25 cents each. The money and tickets would be placed in charge of a responsible citizen. The idea originates from the fact that business men as well as housewives of the town are constantly appealed to by needy persons for money and food, and in some cases, where people responded willingly, they later found that they had been duped by grafters, who were simply using this means to obtain some easy money. By centralizing the funds, those in charge would be more apt to learn whether the applicant for aid were really worthy. Almost everyone will gladly aid some brother in distress, but there is not a person who does not resent being tricked into aiding professional panhandlers, no matter how small the amount. Suzar has offered his time and services in organizing the club, which he suggests be called "The Hard Times Lunch Club." The proposition will doubtless be approved by other Aitkin business men who are all willing to help the unfortunate in this time of need.

Bids for paving over 200 miles of highway will be opened by the state highway department on Dec. 22, and contracts will be let presently after for the 1932 program of highway construction and maintenance. These contracts include stretches between Zimmerman and Milaca on highway No. 18, also south of Milaca to connect with paving out of Elk River. According to latest reports received, the new highway No. 2 west of Aitkin will be paved in 1932.

Recover From Injuries

Robert Hartman and Donna May, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hartman, are recovering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident which occurred Thanksgiving Day. The accident occurred when the car, driven by Rudolph Hartman, skidded on icy roads while the party were on their way to Palisade to get Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Johnson (Ruth Hartman), who were to come to Aitkin for a family reunion at the Otto Hartman home. An event at the reunion was the christening of Warren Otto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hartman (Adeline Harrison), who were at Aitkin from Wadena. The baptismal and christening ceremonies were performed by Rev. Sydney Forster, who with Mrs. Forster were guests on the occasion. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lind (Lucile Hartman), and Mr. Lind's mother, Mrs. C. A. Lind, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Erickson and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Kest.

EXERCISE YOUR RIGHT TO VOTE--

Citizens of ten villages in Crow Wing county will go to the polls Tuesday to cast their ballots for their favorite candidate in the race for administrative honors. It is not necessary to enumerate the possibilities of an election but it is vitally imperative for every citizen to exercise his or her right to vote.

Balloting in these village elections should be looked upon with the same respect and held on the same plane of dignity as a national election. Obviously, in the long run, the results of the village elections will mean just as much and possibly more than the outcome of the next presidential race.

These villages will select their officers for the coming year: Crosby, Ironton, Cuyuna, Deerwood, Ft. Ripley, Jenkins, Manganese, Pequot, Riverton and Trommald.

Your duty as citizens of these villages commands you to go to the polls Tuesday.

A TRIBUTE TO MR. ELVIG--

In the death of Chris H. Elvig, member of the city council, this city lost a true friend and an ardent booster. For more than 20 years he played a prominent part in city activities, being a member of the city council, a member of the municipal band, and various church and fraternal organizations.

Northeast Brainerd owes, in a measure, its development and perhaps its very existence, to Elvig. Outstanding of his works in that community was the building of the Northeast Brainerd Community hall, oftentimes reverently called "Elvig's Hall," in honor of the man who made it possible.

Truly, Brainerd lost one of its outstanding citizens in the death of Mr. Elvig. And, The Daily Dispatch believes it expresses the sentiment of the entire citizenry in a sincere expression of regret at his passing.

TAXING MOTOR CARS--

Officials who have anything to do with the problem of levying or collecting taxes ought to find considerable room for study in the four basic principles of taxation of motor vehicles laid down at the recent convention of the American Automobile Association. Here they are:

"1. Motor taxes should be confined to two forms: One tax to be the equivalent of a property tax expressed preferably through equitable registration fees. The other to be a tax upon the privilege of using the street and road facilities, to be expressed through a tax on fuel consumption.

"2. The imposition and collection of motor vehicle taxes should be vested in a single agency, namely, the state.

"3. All motor vehicle taxes should be placed in a special state fund and used under state direction for the creation and maintenance of trunk line facilities in rural and urban areas, so that motor taxes shall be disbursed through the least number of governmental units exercising the highest regional authority.

"4. Motor vehicle taxes shall at all times be levied with a due regard to the ability of the owner to pay, as well as to the equitable distribution of the cost of state trunk line facilities in rural and urban areas in relation to the direct and indirect benefits to various classes of persons and property."

Here is a code that, if universally adopted by all the states, would solve many of the present difficulties in the collection of taxes and particularly in their distribution. What is more to be desired, it would correct many of the flagrant abuses to which motorists have become victims due to the widespread confusion of authority among the various administrative divisions as against that of the state.

Furthermore it would tend to cure the present inequitable arrangement in practically all the states of disbursing funds gathered from motor vehicle taxes for other purposes than those in any way benefitting the motorist.

It is to the interest of every motorist to remember this basic code whenever he has occasion to vote for a state representative.

RIISING FROM OBSCURITY--

One of our favorite traditions is the belief that only in the United States can the son of poor parents rise to the highest positions in the land. The "log cabin to the White House" story has convinced us that this is true. Only America holds opportunity for the underdog.

To a certain extent this is true. But there are more exceptions than we generally suppose; and a recent dispatch from Paris by an American newspaperman contains some information that is apt to be surprising. Europe, this writer points out, is today very largely ruled by men who came from the lower strata of the population.

In England, of course, there is Ramsay MacDonald, brought up in the bleak poverty of a Scottish village, and now prime minister of the empire. Paralleling his case is that of another famous English prime minister, Lloyd George, who was a penniless orphan and who was reared by a shoemaker.

In France, Premier Laval was the son of a butcher. His family was so poor that he had a hard time getting a decent education. Foreign Minister Briand, similarly, was the son of exceedingly poor parents. Former Premier Herriot is another who came from a poor family.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany did not come from a poverty-stricken family, but his people belonged to the lower middle class. In Czechoslovakia Thomas Masaryk is president, the son of a blacksmith; and another blacksmith's son who rose to power is none other than Benito Mussolini himself. Russia, of course, is ruled by men who came up from the depths, and has been ever since the revolution.

This list is rather impressive. To be sure, it is probably perfectly true that opportunity is still greater on this side of the Atlantic than in Europe. The son of poor parents has more chances. But it is quite obvious that the avenues to fame and riches are by no means closed to him on the other side of the ocean. Europe's so-called ruling class is by no means the closed corporation we generally suppose.

MARY HARKNESS plots to ensnare The Fly, who "framed" her brother, EDDIE, with the murder of MRS. JUPITER and ran him down to keep him from telling. She is aided by MR. JUPITER and BOWEN of the Star. Mary's niece, DICK HENDERICKS, believes Eddie guilty and breaks with Mary when she will not give up the investigation.

Mary sails for Miami on the Jupiter yacht to follow The Fly. DICK HENDERICKS and a question-able friend, FORTUNE LOUISE, go along. They vow to ruin Mary, who they consider a gold-digger trying to steal Bruce's inheritance. Bruce quarrels with Louise over a diamond bracelet she says belongs to Mary. De Loma gave it to her as security for a loan. Bruce makes her give up the bracelet to Mary, who discovers it was stolen from Mrs. Jupiter the night she was killed.

Louise introduces the party to COUNT DE LOMA, who Mary learns is The Fly. Using the Jupiter necklace as bait, Mary dances with him. He gets the necklace from her by a ruse, then kisses her. Dick sneaks him down.

Injured and unconscious, Dick is taken on board the yacht the "Gypsy." The Fly goes along and tries again to steal the necklace. Bowen gives Mary proof that the countess is an adventuress. "Gypsy" sails with all on board. The Fly realizes he has walked into a trap. "Gypsy" goes aground on a reef.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIV

J. J. JUPITER was the first man on deck. Although it was past his usual early retiring hour, he was still dressed. He was there when Captain Hendricks came hurrying down from the bridge, and together the two men retired to the port rail. Bates and Mary followed.

"What's the matter, captain?" Bates inquired somewhat nervously. He had a landsman's inordinate fear of accident on sea, and even Mary felt a childish impulse to rush to the captain and cling to his hand until the danger was over.

"We're fast on a reef," Captain Hendricks was explaining to Mr. Jupiter. "She's apparently not hurt—the engineers say she's making no water below—but she seems to be well stuck."

"Can you get off by yourself?" Mr. Jupiter asked.

"We'll have a try at it tomorrow morning. I'm afraid we'll have to have a tug out of Key West though to give us a pull."

"Do what you think best," Mr. Jupiter answered mildly.

"I shouldn't have come in to-night," the captain continued, "but the moon made it almost like day, and I've been around here so much I thought I could make it even in a fog. This channel isn't used except for small fishing craft, and apparently some of the buoys have drifted over. See that mid-channel buoy there?"

He pointed to what looked like an upturned funnel to Mary. It was floating almost in the shadow the ship cast on the water.

"Mid-channel buoy, and it's sticking right up on top of a reef with only about five feet of water over it! Fortunately we were coming in slow, just barely turning over."

"Where are we?" Bates asked.

"Just a half mile from the old pier at Fort Jefferson where I intended to make fast. In another five minutes we'd have been there. That's Dry Tortugas there a couple of miles off the starboard beam."

They turned to look, and the ray of the big lamp in its white tower swept across their faces and off into the moonlit night.

"I'm going fishing in the morning then," Mr. Jupiter said cheerfully. "How about it, Bates?"

"Fine."

"We'd better be getting a little sleep. Ought to be out by six any way. They bite better early in the morning. Everybody back to bed now. There's nothing we can do to help, and we'd only be in the way."

THE day that followed was one of unutterable tedium for those left behind while the fishing party cruised happily about. Mary sat in a deck chair, a book in her lap, watching the unexcited labors of the distant fishermen through a telescope loaned her by the captain. It was not very entertaining but it was better than nothing.

The burning sun drove Bruce and Louise down the deck. They played interminable games of solitaire. De Loma prowled the ship like a caged animal. He had run out of cigarettes long since, and his nerves were all a-jangle. He roved from one end of the ship to the other, leaning on the rail and studying the prospect in every direction. They were all very much the same, which must have been discouraging.

He avoided the landward side, Mary observed, but whether this was due to her presence there, or to the view—which consisted of glassy sea out of which old Fort Jefferson prison reared its ugly head—she did not know.

Presently, to give him the range of the boat, and also because his restlessness had begun to get on her nerves, she resolved to go below and take a nap. She met a steward with a tray, headed for Dick's stateroom, and stopped him. She rearranged it a bit to make it more inviting. Then she had the steward wait while she wrote a note. It was only three words.

Mary pulled a book from the rack on one side of the salon and sent that along, too. She promised herself that she would drop in and see Dick after he had lunch.

Once she heard an altercation out on deck. De Loma was berating a steward because he had locked up the liquor cabinet, at Mr. Jupiter's order, as it turned out. Mary dismissed it from her mind, until a violent knocking at her door forced her to take notice of it.

De Loma was in a towering, white-hot rage.

"What's this all about?" he snarled. "Am I a guest on this damn fishing-smack or am I not? Why can't I get service from these deaf mutes you've got for waiters on this tub? I want a drink, and I want it now, do you hear? Tell this cub to toss out that key! What does he think I am, a baby?"

"Take your troubles to Captain Hendricks. He's in command," Mary replied.

"Yes? Well, there's something else I want to know—why doesn't that radio operator send my messages?"

"Doesn't he?"

"No. If he did, I'd have had answers before now. What's happening to my trunks? Damn it, if that hotel seizes them, I'll hold you responsible!"

Mary smiled shakily.

"You flatter me. As I said before, Captain Hendricks is the man to see."

"That —"

From his choice of expletives it was apparent that Captain Hendricks had already been seen, and added his refusal to that of his subordinates. De Loma was appealing to Mary as a last resort. He was almost beside himself, and his bravado was fast crumbling. Mary shut the door and an instant later she heard the captain's low, steady voice.

"We've a sick man in that cabin down there, De Loma. I suggest you lower your voice. Better still, was impressive, particularly to a man whose courage was not of the stay up on deck. What were you bothering Miss Harkness about? Miss Harkness is not to be annoyed!"

DE LOMA obeyed without a word.

There was something about the sturdy figure of the captain that physical sort. Mary, listening to the encounter between the two with a loudly beating heart, opened her door a trifle when De Loma had gone. Captain Hendricks was still standing there.

"Keep your door locked," he said very low. "The steward just surprised him trying Mr. Jupiter's door. That's what he's so hot and bothered about. Though I reckon he'd like to have a drink, at that. Good thing Jupiter's got the only bottle—I think he'd try to row to shore."

"Are we off the reef yet?" she asked hopefully.

All morning the crew had worked at the job of dislodging the stranded "Gypsy," first dropping an anchor off the bow and trying to pull her forward with a winch and then, after the performance of the job. But the lovely white-and-gold yacht was firmly seated upon a rock, and there she remained, as alluring a sight as Circe of old to the tired and grubby fishermen now playing toward her.

"No luck. We're here till we can get a tug to pull us off." The captain shook his head. "He'll be bawling before then. You know what I think? He whispered almost gleefully. "I think it's that old prison that gets his goat! He's so jittery now he can't eat. And when appetites fall on shipboard, a man's either seasick or got the fear of hell-fire in him."

In mid-afternoon the fishermen arrived, and even the sullen De Loma was at the rail to watch their coming aboard. Any kind of activity was better than the stillness and utter lack of human association from which he had been suffering.

"Oh, what marvelous luck!" Mary called out involuntarily as the boat came alongside and she saw several shining fish in the bottom. "What are they? I never saw such beautiful fish before." Both Mr. Jupiter and Bates were grinning as they climbed out, albeit rather stiffly, and came up the gangplank.

"Kingfish," Bates replied, "and they're rightly named, too. What a fight one of those fellows gave me! He knew I was an amateur so he gave the works."

"Didn't you get any barracuda?" "No. No luck there." Mr. Jupiter called a deck hand to bring their catch up from the dinghy. "I wouldn't want to try to bring one of those into that cockleshell. Got the boat loose yet?"

"Sorry, sir," the captain replied. "And now there's something the matter with the radio. Tried to get Key West to order a tug, but it wouldn't work. Couldn't raise any one." A sudden thought made him look suspiciously in De Loma's direction. "If I thought anyone had tampered with it—"

De Loma brought his eyes back from a moody contemplation of Fort Jefferson prison, turned and walked away. The captain's speculative gaze followed him.

Inventor of Ice Cream Cones Dies in Akron

Akron, O., Dec. 4. — (UP)—Charles E. Menches, 72, who invented the ice cream cone and thereby created an American institution, died last night after a heart attack.

The carnival man had lapsed in his concessions at the St. Louis world's fair, glancing idly about.

Two girls in a nearby ice cream stand wrapped waffles around ice cream and were eating with gusto.

Menches sprang from his chair with a shout of conviction and the ice cream cone virtually was created. He founded the first cone company in 1905.

In Czechoslovakia Thomas Masaryk is president, the son of a blacksmith; and another blacksmith's son who rose to power is none other than Benito Mussolini himself. Russia, of course, is ruled by men who came up from the depths, and has been ever since the revolution.

This list is rather impressive. To be sure, it is probably perfectly true that opportunity is still greater on this side of the Atlantic than in Europe. The son of poor parents has more chances. But it is quite obvious that the avenues to fame and riches are by no means closed to him on the other side of the ocean. Europe's so-called ruling class is by no means the closed corporation we generally suppose.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
MARY HARKNESS plots to escape. The Fly, who "framed" her brother, EDDIE, with the murder of MRS. JUPITER and ran him down to keep him from telling her is aided by MR. JUPITER and BOWEN of the Star. Mary's fiancé, DIRK RYTHIER, believes Eddie guilty and breaks with Mary when she will not give up the investigation.

Mary sails for Miami on the Jupiter yacht to follow The Fly. DIRK RYTHIER and a question-able friend, COUNTESS LOUISE, go along. They vow to ruin Mary, who they consider a gold-digger trying to steal Bruce's inheritance. Bruce quarrels with Louise over a diamond bracelet she says belongs to Mary. De Loma gave it to her as security for a loan. Bruce makes her give up the bracelet to Mary, who discovers it was stolen from Mrs. Jupiter the night she was killed.

Louise introduces the party to COLT DE LOMA, who Mary learns is The Fly. Using the Jupiter necklace as bait, Mary dances with him. He kisses the necklace from her by a ruse, then kisses her. Dirk knocks him down.

Injured and unconscious, Dirk is taken on board the yacht the "Gypsy." The Fly goes along and tries again to steal the necklace. Bowen gives Mary proof that the countess is an adventuress. The "Gypsy" sails with Dirk on board. The Fly realizes he has walked into a trap. The "Gypsy" goes aground on a reef.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLIV

J. J. JUPITER was the first man on deck. Although it was past his usual early retiring hour, he was still dressed. He was there when Captain Hendricks came hurrying down from the bridge, and together the two men retired to the port rail. Bates and Mary followed.

"What's the matter, captain?" Bates inquired somewhat nervously. He had a landsman's inordinate fear of accident on sea, and even Mary felt a childish impulse to rush to the captain and cling to his hand until the danger was over.

"We're fast on a reef," Captain Hendricks was explaining to Mr. Jupiter. "She's apparently not hurt—the engineers say she's making no water below—but she seems to be well stuck."

"Can you get off by yourself?" Mr. Jupiter asked.

"We'll have a try at it tomorrow morning. I'm afraid we'll have to have a tug out of Key West though to give us a pull."

"Do what you think best," Mr. Jupiter answered mildly.

"I shouldn't have come in tonight," the captain continued, "but the moon made it almost like day, and I've been around here so much I thought I could make it even in a fog. This channel isn't used except for small fishing craft, and apparently some of the buoys have drifted over. See that mid-channel buoy there?"

He pointed to what looked like an upturned funnel to Mary. It was floating almost in the shadow of the ship cast on the water.

"Mid-channel buoy, and it's sticking right up on top of a reef with only about five feet of water over it! Fortunately we were coming in slow, just barely turning over."

"Where are we?" Bates asked.

"Just a half mile from the old pier at Fort Jefferson where I intended to make fast. In another five minutes we'd have been there. That's Dry Tortugas there a couple of miles off the starboard beam."

They turned to look, and the ray of the big lamp in its white tower swept across their faces and off into the moonlit night.

"I'm going fishing in the morning then," Mr. Jupiter said cheerfully. "How about it, Bates?"

"Fine."
"We'd better be getting a little sleep. Ought to be out by six any way. They bite better early in the morning. Everybody back to bed now. There's nothing we can do to help, and we'd only be in the way."

THE day that followed was one of unutterable tedium for those left behind while the fishing party cruised happily about. Mary sat in a deck chair, a book in her lap, watching the unexcited labors of the distant fishermen through a telescope loaned her by the captain. It was not very entertaining but it was better than nothing.

The burning sun drove Bruce and Louise about where they played interminable games of solitaire. De Loma prowled the ship like a caged animal. He had run out of cigarettes long since, and his nerves were all a-jangle. He roved from one end of the ship to the other, leaning on the rail and studying the prospect in every direction. They were all very much the same, which must have been discouraging.

He avoided the landward side, Mary observed, but whether this was due to her presence there, or to the view—which consisted of glassy sea out of which old Fort Jefferson prison reared its ugly head—she did not know.

Presently, to give him the range of the boat, and also because his restlessness had begun to get on her nerves, she resolved to go below and take a nap. She met a steward with a tray, headed for Dirk's state room, and stopped him. She rearranged it a bit to make it more inviting. Then she had the steward wait while she wrote a note. It was only three words.

Mary pulled a book from the rack on one side of the salon and sent that along, too. She promised herself that she would drop in and see Dirk after he had lunch.

Once she heard an altercation out on deck. De Loma was berating a steward because he had locked up the liquor cabinet, at Mr. Jupiter's order, as it turned out. Mary dismissed it from her mind, until a violent knocking at her door forced her to take notice of it.

De Loma was in a towering, white-hot rage.

"What's this all about?" he snarled. "Am I a guest on this damn fishing-smack or am I not? Why can't I get service from these deaf mutes you've got for waiters on this tub? I want a drink, and I want it now, do you hear? Tell this cub to toss out that key! What does he think I am, a baby?"

"Take your troubles to Captain Hendricks. He's in command," Mary replied.

"Yes? Well, there's something else I want to know—why doesn't that radio operator send my messages?"

"Doesn't he?"

"No. If he did, I'd have had answers before now. What's happening to my trunks? Damn it, if that hotel seizes them, I'll hold you responsible!"

Mary smiled shakily.

"You flatter me. As I said before, Captain Hendricks is the man to see."

"That —!"
From his choice of expletives it was apparent that Captain Hendricks had already been seen, and added his refusal to that of his subordinates. De Loma was appealing to Mary as a last resort. He was almost beside himself, and his bravado was fast crumbling. Mary shut the door and an instant later she heard the captain's low, steady voice.

"We've a sick man in that cabin down there, De Loma. I suggest you lower your voice. Better still, was impressive, particularly to a man whose courage was not of the stay up on deck. What were you bothering Miss Harkness about? Miss Harkness is not to be annoyed!"

DE LOMA obeyed without a word.

There was something about the sturdy figure of the captain that physical sort. Mary, listening to the encounter between the two with a loudly beating heart, opened her door a trifle when De Loma had gone. Captain Hendricks was still standing there.

"Keep your door locked," he said very low. "The steward just surprised him trying Mr. Jupiter's door. That's what he's so hot and bothered about. Though I reckon he'd like to have a drink, at that. Good thing Jupiter got the only boat—I think he'd try to row to shore."

"Are we off the reef yet?" she asked hopefully.

All morning the crew had worked at the job of dislodging the stranded "Gypsy," first dropping an anchor off the bow and trying to pull her forward with a winch and then repeating the performance off the stern. But the lovely white-and-gold yacht was firmly seated upon a rock, and there she remained, as alluring a sight as Circe of old to the tired and grubby fishermen now playing toward her.

"No luck. We're here till we can get a tug to pull us off." The captain shook his head. "He'll be bawling before then. You know what I think? He whispered almost gleefully. "I think it's that old prison that gets his goat. He's so jittery now he can't eat. And when appetites fall on shipboard, a man's either seaisick or got the fear of hell-fire in him."

In mid-afternoon the fishermen arrived, and even the sullen De Loma was at the rail to watch their coming aboard. Any kind of activity was better than the stillness and utter lack of human association from which he had been suffering.

"Oh, what marvelous luck!" Mary called out involuntarily as the boat came alongside and she saw several shining fish in the bottom. "What are they? I never saw such beautiful fish before." Both Mr. Jupiter and Bates were grinning as they climbed out, albeit rather stiffly, and came up the gangplank.

"Kingfish," Bates replied, "and they're rightly named, too. What a fight one of those fellows gave me! He knew I was an amateur so he gave the works."

"Didn't you get any barracuda?" "No. No luck there," Mr. Jupiter called a deck hand to bring their catch up from the dingy. "I wouldn't want to try to bring one of those into that cockleshell. Got the boat loose yet?"

"Sorry, sir," the captain replied. "And now there's something the matter with the radio. Tried to get Key West to order a tug, but it wouldn't work. Couldn't raise anyone." A sudden thought made him look suspiciously in De Loma's direction. "If I thought anyone had tampered with it—"

De Loma brought his eyes back from a moody contemplation of Fort Jefferson prison, turned and walked away. The captain's speculative gaze followed him.

DIRK was either asleep or feigned it when Mary went down to see him. His stony unresponsiveness was beginning to wear her spirits down at last. It was not human, she felt, to be so stubbornly resistant even to the ordinary claims of friendship. He must hate her. There was no other explanation.

She almost ran to her own cabin, locked herself in and let the tears come. Then, realizing that she could not go up on deck again without exciting curiosity, she sent a steward to ask Bates to loan her his half-complete "picture puzzle." If she must be a prisoner she could at least be doing something useful.

For two hours she labored over the heap of paper scraps, fitting them together expertly, until she had the finished poster. It was almost impossible to gain a clear idea of the man's looks until another hour's labor had succeeded in pasting the scraps in place. But beyond a doubt it was De Loma—a younger De Loma, almost a boy in face. The same thin, hawk-like face, the beady black eyes, the arrogant head. He wore a white shirt open at the neck, and white trousers curiously clipped in at the ankles, as if for bicycle riding, and what appeared to be a pair of old tennis shoes. The curiousness of this get-up was heightened by his pose—arms folded across the chest, the feet at right angles in the "first position" of the ballet dancer.

Below was printed: "Harry Hill, the Human Fly." Mary pondered this for some time. The name was not familiar, and she had no idea what a "human fly" was. Leaving it for Bates' interpretation, she went up on deck.

Night had settled down as she joined the rest of the party, grouped on the main deck just forward of Mr. Jupiter's cabin. A half mile or so to the east, gleaming ghostly clear in the moonlight, the prison rose abruptly out of the sea. A gold moon swam in the deep blue tropical sky. The whole scene was like a vivid lithograph or a highly colored postcard picture.

Louise was talking as Mary joined the group, describing an old castle she had visited the year before. "It had the most marvelous stained glass windows, made in Italy by the monks during the Renaissance and transported over the mountains on donkeys. I remember particularly a deep crimson . . . the glass was so finely colored it looked like precious stone."

She turned to Mary. "What reminded me of it were your rubies. What have you done with them? Do you have them on the yacht? I should love just to look at them again."

"I have them here," Mr. Jupiter spoke up, before Mary could decide what answer to make to this amazing request. He reached into the pocket of his dinner jacket and pulled them out, holding them up to the eyes of the others. There were several sharply drawn breaths at the unexpected glory of the stones.

"Try 'em on, Mary, do," he urged. "It's a sight worth seeing," he told the others with naive pride.

He rose and laid them in her hands. Fumbling with nervousness, Mary reached up to fasten them about her neck, but they slipped from her fingers. She made a frantic grab for them, but only succeeded in striking them with her hand. They fell dashing into the sea.

"You fool! Oh, you fool!" De Loma screamed at her insanely. "Now see what you've done!"

Inventor of Ice Cream

Cones Dies in Akron

AKRON, O., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Charles E. Menches, 72, who invented the ice cream cone and thereby created an American institution, died last night after a heart attack.

The carnival man had lapsed in his concessions at the St. Louis world's fair, glancing idly about.

Two girls in a nearby ice cream stand wrapped waffles around ice cream and were eating with gusto.

Menches sprung from his chair with a shout of conviction and the ice cream cone virtually was created. He founded the first cone company in 1905.

The time has come when we, as thinking citizens and taxpayers, must choose between the great common carriers of this country and individual methods of transportation. CRISLER CONFIRMS BIERMAN'S APPOINTMENT TO U. OF M.

TULANE MENTOR AND EX-GOPHER ATHLETE TO SUCCEED CRISLER

CRISLER TO CONTINUE AS ADMINISTRATOR OF UNIVERSITY ATHLETIC UNIT

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—Appointment of Bernie Bierman, football coach at Tulane university to a similar position at Minnesota, effective January 1, was announced today by Herbert O. Crisler, athletic director.

Crisler, who coached the Minnesota teams of 1930 and 1931, will devote his time to the administration of the university athletic department, he revealed in a statement announcing the appointment. Bierman is a former Minnesota football star.

To Be Given Free Hand
"My recommendation of Mr. Bierman to the president and the board of regents has been approved," Crisler said. "Mr. Bierman will receive a faculty rating of full professor with services starting January 1."

"We are fortunate in obtaining a gentleman of such fine qualities as possessed by Mr. Bierman. He has established himself as a coach of an enviable record and will make a fine addition to our staff."

Bierman will be given a free hand in the selection of his football assistants, subject to the approval of the president and the board of regents, Crisler said.

"I intend to devote my entire time to the administration of the physical education and athletic department," Crisler said. "It will be my objective to inject the same spirit in all our athletics that has been so abundant in our recent football teams."

Recommended Bierman

"Last year I made the statement that whenever in my opinion I felt it was for the best interest of the university and the athletic department, I would obtain a football coach to share some of the duties of the capacity in which I was appointed," Crisler said.

"Further, I said that whenever I was unable to do justice to two positions I would recommend an additional appointment providing conditions were such that it would not be unfair for a football coach to have every chance to succeed. I did not want anyone to start under the circumstances which I originally encountered."

"Progress has been made in every quarter since a year ago last spring. The situation in the athletic department is such that we can look to the future with considerable hope as a result of the foundations which have been securely built. The urge of matters in connection with the department is such that considerable time is demanded to carry to a conclusion a successful administration."

Bierman Played in 1915
Bierman was born in Minnesota in 1894. He played his first football with the Litchfield high school team. At the University of Minnesota he earned three "M's" in his sophomore year, for track, football and basketball, and continued to star in these sports.

Bierman was elected captain of the Minnesota team in 1915, the year his team shared the championship with Illinois. He was named all-western halfback.

His first coaching position was at Butte, Mont., where he taught championship football until he entered the marine corps at the outset of the war. Bierman went to Tulane in 1923 as assistant to Clark Shaughnessy, another Minnesotan.

In 1925, Bierman became head coach at Mississippi A. and M. where he defeated teams of his friend Shaughnessy. Two years later Bierman was appointed head coach at Tulane. For three years Tulane has been undefeated.

Crosby-Ironton Hangs Up First Cage Victory of Season Over Wadena

Displaying a steady and potentially powerful offensive, Crosby-Ironton defeated Wadena 20 to 12 at Crosby in the opening game of the season for both teams last night.

It was not until the last quarter that Crosby-Ironton wore down the courageous Wadena cagers, lopping in several counters when the offensive in under the basket began to function smoothly, although they led by a few points throughout the fracas. Running attack was typical of the first game of the season for both teams. Neither showed any marked ability at connecting with the whistled basket either but both teams indicated scoring threats from in under the basket.

Paul F. Jaeger, Brainerd, was referee.

Caledonia Dog Awarded Bronze Award for Heroism

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 4.—(U.P.)—A Collie dog belonging to William Haard of Caledonia, Minn., today was awarded a bronze medal signifying heroism and intelligence for preventing his master from stepping on two rattlesnakes.

The award was made by a committee of the National Anti-Vivisection society. Chuck, the dog honored, smelled the snakes in the path and blocked his master's advance. Then the dog dashed back and forth before the snakes attracting their attention until his master could kill them.

New Gopher Coach Poses With His Family

ed the destinies of Tulane university's football teams for the last several years, will assume his new duties as coach of his Alma Mater, Minnesota, January 1, succeeding Fritz Crisler. The latter will continue as director of athletics. Bierman is shown in the above picture with his wife and two sons in a recent photo.

32 FATALITIES ON GRIDIRON THIS SEASON

New York, Dec. 4.—(U.P.)—"To die for dear old Rutgers," is more than a football ideal; thirty-two youths actually died in action during the 1931 football season.

At least a dozen players have been crippled so they may be bedridden the rest of their lives. Hundreds more have been seriously injured.

The death toll is unprecedented, at least since 1905 when Theodore Roosevelt took action against the game and it was abandoned at many important institutions. The previous fatality record was 20 in 1925, the low record was 5 in 1913 and the 25-year average for deaths per season is 14.

FAWCETT AND LAKE REGION FRIENDS DINE WITH DEMPSEY AT BREEZY POINT TODAY

Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, most colorful ring impresario, came to the Brainerd Lake Region today feeling "fit as a fiddle" and none the worse for his flat encounters at Fargo last night.

Dempsey was the guest of honor of Captain Billy Fawcett at a dinner this afternoon at Breezy Point lodge. A number of Brainerd people were invited as guests.

The Manassa Mauler will remain at Breezy over night and will motor with Captain Fawcett to Virginia Sunday where they will be the guests of Dick Bailey, lumberman and recently appointed member of the state conservation commission. The heavyweight will appear in the ring at Duluth Monday.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 5.—(U.P.)—Jack Dempsey scored two knockouts and two decisions in four one-round appearances here last night. The former heavyweight champion floored Johnny Korando, Chicago, in 16 seconds, and Swede Gransberg, Gary, in 57 seconds. Charlie Retzlaff, Duluth, among the first ten heavyweights, preferred to clinch and seemed timid. Dempsey won the bout on aggressiveness and a few solid blows. Tommy Davenport, Little Rock, Ark., jolted Dempsey with a hard right to the head but Dempsey won the round easily.

WHITE SOX START REBUILDING WITH PLAYERS' EXCHANGE

ACQUIRE PITCHERS HADLEY AND JONES AND INFELDER HAYES FROM SENATORS

West Baden, Ind., Dec. 4.—(U.P.)—The rebuilding of the Chicago White Sox and the reorganization of the minor leagues were the two chief topics of conversation today at the National Association of professional baseball clubs entered the final day of the 30th annual convention.

The White Sox engineered the biggest trade since the close of the 1931 season when they traded Outfielder Carl Reynolds and Infielder Johnny Kerr to Washington for Pitchers Irving Hadley, Sad Sam Jones and Infielder Minter C. Hayes.

An hour after the Washington deal last night, the White Sox traded Bob Weiland, southpaw pitcher, to the Boston Red Sox for Milton Gaston, right-handed pitcher, and it was learned today, that they have two more deals pending which are expected to be consummated at the major league meeting in Chicago next week.

One of them is with the New York Yankees who have made overtures for Vic Frasier, right handed pitcher. The White Sox do not want to part with Frasier, but have countered with another offer.

When President Lou Comiskey, who inherited the White Sox from his father "the old Roman" last month, said this week that he was ready to "trade or sell any player on the team to rebuild the White Sox," he meant business.

Reynolds, a disappointment last season after batting .359 in 1930, is expected to return to his old form with Washington if he is not hampered by illness and injuries as was last season when he hit only .290.

The White Sox have acquired the added pitching strength they needed last year. Hadley won 11 games and lost 10 and was fourth in earned runs with an average of 3.05. Jones, a veteran who formerly pitched for the Yankees and Browns, won 9 games and lost 13 but is a lot better pitcher than his record indicates.

The organization to replace Mike Sexton, who has been retired from the presidency of the National Association after 22 years in office, neared completion today. Three members of the committee were named by the class A A and A leagues.

CRISLER CONFIRMS BIERMAN'S APPOINTMENT TO U. OF M.

TULANE MENTOR AND EX-GOPHER ATHLETE TO SUCCEED CRISLER

CRISLER TO CONTINUE AS ADMINISTRATOR OF UNIVERSITY ATHLETIC UNIT

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 5.—(UP)—Appointment of Bernie Bierman, football coach at Tulane university to a similar position at Minnesota, effective January 1, was announced today by Herbert O. Crisler, athletic director.

Crisler, who coached the Minnesota teams of 1930 and 1931, will devote his time to the administration of the university athletic department, he revealed in a statement announcing the appointment. Bierman is a former Minnesota football star.

To Be Given Free Hand

"My recommendation of Mr. Bierman to the president and the board of regents has been approved," Crisler said. "Mr. Bierman will receive a faculty rating of full professor with services starting January 1.

"We are fortunate in obtaining a gentleman of such fine qualities as possessed by Mr. Bierman. He has established himself as a coach of an enviable record and will make a fine addition to our staff."

Bierman will be given a free hand in the selection of his football assistants, subject to the approval of the president and the board of regents, Crisler said.

"I intend to devote my entire time to the administration of the physical education and athletic department," Crisler said. "It will be my objective to inject the same spirit in all our athletics that has been so abundant in our recent football teams."

Recommended Bierman

"Last year I made the statement that whenever in my opinion I felt it was for the best interest of the university and the athletic department, I would obtain a football coach to share some of the duties of the capacity in which I was appointed," Crisler said.

"Further, I said that whenever I was unable to do justice to two positions I would recommend an additional appointment providing conditions were such that it would not be unfair for a football coach to have every chance to succeed. I did not want anyone to start under the circumstances which I originally encountered."

"Progress has been made in every quarter since a year ago last spring. The situation in the athletic department is such that we can look to the future with considerable hope as a result of the foundations which have been securely built. The urge of matters in connection with the department is such that considerable time is demanded to carry to a conclusion a successful administration."

Bierman Played in 1915

Bierman was born in Minnesota in 1894. He played his first football with the Littlefield high school team. At the University of Minnesota he earned three "M's" in his sophomore year, for track, football and basketball, and continued to star in these sports.

Bierman was elected captain of the Minnesota team in 1915, the year his team shared the championship with Illinois. He was named all-western halfback.

His first coaching position was at Butte, Mont., where he taught championship football until he entered the marine corps at the outset of the war. Bierman went to Tulane in 1923 as assistant to Clark Shaughnessy, another Minnesotan.

In 1925, Bierman became head coach at Mississippi A. and M. where he defeated teams of his friend Shaughnessy. Two years later Bierman was appointed head coach at Tulane. For three years Tulane has been undefeated.

Crosby-Ironton Hangs Up First Cage Victory of Season Over Wadena

Displaying a steady and potentially powerful offensive, Crosby-Ironton defeated Wadena 20 to 12 at Crosby in the opening game of the season for both teams last night.

It was not until the last quarter that Crosby-Ironton wore down the courageous Wadena cagers, loping in several counters when the offensive in under the basket began to function smoothly, although they led by a few points throughout the fracas. Running attack was typical of the first game of the season for both teams. Neither showed any marked ability at connecting with the whistled basket either but both teams indicated scoring threats from in under the basket.

Paul F. Jaeger, Brainerd, was referee.

Caledonia Dog Awarded Bronze Award for Heroism

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 4.—(UP)—A Collie dog belonging to William Haar of Caledonia, Minn., today was awarded a bronze medal signifying heroism and intelligence for preventing his master from stepping on two rattlesnakes.

The award was made by a committee of the National Anti-Vivisection society. Chuck, the dog honored, smelled the snakes in the path and blocked his master's advance. Then the dog dashed back and forth before the snakes attracting their attention until his master could kill them.

Limit Minor Sports, Abandon Track Relays

Chicago, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Strict limitation of all minor sports, never considered profitable and now financially impractical because of decreased football revenues, was favored by the Western conference today after it had abandoned two large track relays.

Conference coaches, athletic directors and faculty representatives voted yesterday to discontinue, for 1932 at least, the Illinois and Ohio State relays. Limited schedules for conference baseball, cross country, wrestling, tennis, golf, swimming and gymnastics were approved.

PITT, ARMY PLACES TWO GRIDDERS EACH ON ALL-EAST TEAM

BARRY WOOD, HARVARD, GIVEN CALL OVER MORTON, DARTMOUTH

New York, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Pittsburgh and Army each placed two men on the United Press' 1931 all-eastern team, with the remaining seven places distributed among as many schools.

Ray Stecker, star of Army's victory over Notre Dame, and captain John Price represent the Cadets with Jess Quatse, tackle, and Ray Daugherty, center, as Pitt's delegates. The team:
